Preface

Reaffirming the commitment towards the right of children to care, nutrition, health and education in early childhood, Ministry of Women and Child Development (MWCD) has introduced National Early Childhood Care and Education Policy in 2013. The Policy has highlighted educational needs of children between 3-6 years and importance of education component in early years. In India, the ECCE services are delivered through public, private and non-governmental organizations. Specifically, the early childhood education (ECE) is provided to millions of children in 3-6 years of age through government run Anganwadis under ICDS and Rajiv Gandhi National Scheme for Working Women; the private channel is largely remains unregulated and is operational under varied names such as play groups, play schools, pre-schools, nursery schools etc. To streamline and coordinate the activities of these different centres it is important to bring them under one umbrella of standardized norms and regulations.

The crucial role of quality pre-school education was recognised through 86th Constitutional Amendment, which introduced Article 45 that states, “The State shall endeavour to provide early childhood care and education for all children until they complete the age of six years”. Consequently, the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (RTE) Act, 2009 recommended that- “With a view to prepare children above the age of three years for elementary education and to provide early childhood care and education for all children until they complete the age of six years, the appropriate Government shall make necessary arrangement for providing free pre-school education for such children.” Presently, this provision is being implemented and fulfilled by MWCD through ECCE ensuring the right of children to pre-school education. Also, the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) included pre-school education under 4th goal to ‘ensure inclusive and quality education for all and promote lifelong learning’ and has targeted that by 2030, ensure that all girls and boys have access to quality early childhood development, care and pre-primary education so that they are ready for primary education.

Upholding the spirit of Constitution and Right to Education Act, 2009 and based on the National ECCE Policy 2013, NCPCR has developed Regulatory Guidelines for Private Play Schools to,

- bring inclusiveness and uniformity in all educational institutions providing pre-school education.
- to prevent violation of child rights and any kind of abuse against children in the age 3-6 years by regulating such educational institutions providing pre-school education.
- to achieve national as well as international commitment of pre-school education for children in the age 3-6 years and preparing them for primary education.
- to remove ambiguity in the early childhood education (ECE) system in India by regulating such institutions.
